

GHOST STORIES of Washington Township

Deep crime, just retribution, and supernatural occurrences wind into the thrilling theme of Centerville's leading ghost tale, which to this day is told and retold among the residents of the town. There is no lack of authentication for this story of decades ago. Living men, witnesses of weird phenomena, are still abroad to tell of it. Others, perhaps too deeply involved, have disappeared.

Into Centerville many years ago, came a woman and her son. Silent, close people they were, and the town knew little of them until later happenings stirred rumor and story. They settled in a large house, still standing and occupied on South Main street, where they lived until driven from the community by the "thing."

First hints of the trouble were noticed when the son, who had started a fine blacksmith business, appeared at his labors each day distraught and exhausted. Kindly comment by customers were answered shortly, savagely. Then slowly the word went 'round. All was not right at that house, and the woman, in moments of tears, told of nightly visits of some horrid thing, that gibbered in the halls and stealthily pulled the blankets from the sleepers.

Unable to face the monster more, the couple finally made preparations to leave, but not until their story was known, to be retold with bated breath. They had come to Centerville from near Sacramento, bribed from the scene of a murder, which only they had witnessed. They were the only ones who saw a deadly fight in which one of the participants was slain. They never told the name of the murdered man, or of the killer. It is said that the murder in later years, attempted suicide, but this was never proved.

With the departure of the woman and her son, Centerville

DUTIES OF OFFICER TOLD JUNIORS AT MEET HERE

Jurist Tells Need For Day Time Office In Niles

Niles' need for a daytime peace officer was one of the major threads of an interesting and informative talk given before the Niles Junior Chamber of Commerce by Judge J. A. Silva (Monday night).

The speaker, who lauded the junior group on their establishment of an effective and steady night patrol service, explained the present system of police patrol in this district and the duties of an officer. He stated the opinion that Niles, among all south county towns, should have real police service, both day and night, due to the proximity of extensive "hobo jungles" and the presence of a major railroad junction.

In answer to questions put by members, Judge Silva explained that the local constable, while primarily an officer for the local court, has not been available here during recent weeks. To secure a peace officer on short notice during the day time is impossible in many cases here, the judge said, adding that a phone call to Hayward and sometimes to the central sheriff's office in Oakland is necessary. Reason for the constable's continued absence during summer months is that he has assumed the duties of a deputy sheriff, although his first official duties

MARIE BRAZIL NAMES NEW CHAIRMEN FOR UNIT

Mrs. Marie Brazil, new president of the Legion Auxiliary post, No. 195, recently appointed the following committee chairmen:

Rehabilitation and cooperative sales, Lena Bertolotti; child welfare, Angie Furtado; community service, Geneva Smith; Americanization and education, Pearl Wiseman; national defense, Marian Swizzig; disaster relief, Irma Peterson; legislation, Ida Mendonca; membership, Nell Farrington Myers; junior membership, Marie Brazil; publicity, Rose Vieux.

The unit members are making preparation for their annual card party, to be held on the first Tuesday in November, Mrs. Vieux said.

SPEEDERS SHELL OUT $89.50 AT COURT FRIDAY

Friday proved to be another profitable day for the Niles justice court, according to Judge J. A. Silva, who states that a total of $89.50 was taken in fines from speeders. Only one reckless driving charge was placed, netting a fine of $25. The other citations were given for lesser infractions, and drew smaller penalties.

DECOTO JUNIORS TO REQUEST 24-HOUR PHONE SERVICE

Determined to bring the Decoto Junior Chamber of Commerce out of its long summer lethargy, Frank J. Thomas, president, called the group together Monday night for election of fall term officers. A series of projects and social affairs were discussed following the ballot.

Thomas was reelected to the presidency. Philip Hernandez was named vice president and Felix Pinza, secretary-treasurer. Clarence Freitas, Manuel Muniz and Antonio Costa are the new directors.

Foremost among the projects planned will be that to bring a 24-hour telephone service to the town, which now has service from 7 a. m. to 10 p. m. The officers stated that the nature of the change is immaterial. Either maintenance of a full-time central station or the installation of a dial system, similar to Newark's, will be acceptable.

The main talk of the evening was given by Philip Hernandez, who urged the membership to boost the sanitary district project, to come before the voters on October 29.

Plans for a whist and card party, both to be held in November, were submitted, and Joseph Calderia appointed chairman of the entertainment committee.

WOUNDED THIEF IS GIVEN 6 MONTHS JAIL TERM

Pleading guilty to a charge of petty theft, Salvadore Garcia, 23, was sentenced to six months in the county jail, when he appeared before Judge J. A. Silva at the Niles justice court. Garcia, admitted stealing a sack of sugar from the Holly Sugar Company plant at Alvarado.

A wound in the arm, suffered when the miscreant failed to heed Watchman J. A. Bone's command to halt, had postponed the arraignment. The wound is healed sufficiently to warrant the man's transference to the county jail.

Garcia, who was found in his bed at a beet pickers' camp the day after the shooting, held that he had received the wound accidentally while hunting with a friend. Although he has no police record, he is said to have committed a minor robbery several months ago.

BRISTOW ASKS NEW INTEREST FOR CLUB MEET

In a letter to members of the Men's Club, to meet here on Wednesday evening, October 30, E. Dixon Bristow, president of the township organization, makes a plea for revived interest in the meetings.

Calling attention to the informative and entertaining nature of the program, Bristow, urges all members to attend, and to bring with them "a future member." He stated that a decline in the membership, unless checked, may eventually result in a curtailment of the programs, and a reduction of the club's standards.

Foremost on the program for the next meeting will be a talk by Dr. William Paden, of Alameda, who is an authority on early California trails. In addition to the talk there will be an outstanding musical program.

The annual election of officers will take place before the address.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

Alameda County Spending Half Million More!

Alameda county government is going to cost $455,484.00 more money during the official year 1935-1936 than it did during the official year 1934-1935.

Last year the state, exclusively, taxed public utility property in this county and other counties of the state. Now this valuable tax-earning source has been returned to the county. It adds a half million of dollars to the county treasury. The state, losing this revenue, must get it from the people of Alameda in another way.

Instead of lopping off a half million dollars from the tax-payers' stooping shoulders, the board of supervisors, acting harmoniously with all county agencies of government, is not going to do anything of the kind. It is going to spend all the money it did last year and add to it the approximate sum of $500,000 in tax money taken from the utility companies.

In keeping with the policies of the Township Register to reveal just why taxes are going up and not down, this week we turn your attention to the office of the district attorney.

A couple of years ago Earl Warren sought, and was successful, in securing the chairmanship of the Republican state central committee. Quite an honor. But Warren is a public official—a hired hand of Alameda county—sworn to give his whole time to the duties of the district attorney's office. To properly discharge the obligations of state chairman one must give all his time to that position. Besides industry on the part of the chairman to properly handle the manifold duties, clerks and assistants are necessary to carry on the work. It is reasonable to suppose that Warren is not letting the chairmanship duties lag. Indeed, we know he is not, for we have read and you have read, of his activities during the past two weeks, which concerned Republican politics and not labor for Alameda county. Almost weekly dispatches tell of Warren here or there over the state addressing party workers and, as chairman of the Republican state central committee, exhorting the lesser lights in the organization to organize against the administration of Franklin D. Roosevelt.

A county officer accepting work and specific obligations outside of his office, violates a public trust. That he can do so, and hold his office, is a reflection on the people's ability to make their public servant behave and render a dollar's service for every dollar paid.

But running the Republican state central committee, while taking the taxpayers' money in salary, is not in itself sufficient affront to administer to good government, so Warren goes a step further. In looking over a lawyer's publication the other day while in Oakland, we were simply amazed, dumfounded, pained and vexed to find on the bottom of at least a dozen legal notices the name of Earl Warren, "attorney for plaintiff." That means—and there can be no mistake about it—Warren is busy with a private practice of law while supposedly acting as legal counsel for Alameda county. Startling, yes! Disgusting; more than disgusting; an insult to the voters who elected him.

Summed up, it is this way: Earl Warren, chairman of the Republican state central committee most of the time, private practice counsellor in his spare moments, and district attorney on pay day.

Elks to Have First Bass Derby Oct. 20

October 20 is the date for the first Elks bass derby, to be held in the Delta region. The antlered herd will stage the event, rain or shine, officials said. Friday night, October 11, is scheduled for a sign-up rally, when final entries will be reached, and plans laid for meeting in Oakland at 5 a. m., October 20.

SENIOR CHAMBER TO MAKE SURVEY FOR NEW FACTORY

Textile Plant Seeking Location Writes Niles Organization

In answer to a specific request, the Niles Chamber of Commerce is investigating possibilities of bringing a major industry to Niles.

Received from the Weil-Kalter Manufacturing Company through Postmaster Howard V. Fournier, the letter states that the bay region has been selected for the establishment of an additional factory, to employ 10 people. The plant will be located in the community offering the best facilities. A rent free, tax free building is asked, to be equipped with a sprinkler system, and with approximately 20,000 square feet of space. The Niles group, although primarily interested in Niles district, will ask the cooperation of

P.T.A. TO STRESS PROPER DIET IN SCHOOL CAFETERIA

Aid of Parents Requested to Teach Youngsters
Food Choice

The grammar school children, even in the lower grades are entirely capable of selecting their own lunches, and of handling their own money, is the conclusion of the Niles Parent-Teachers Association, with the reservation that the parents should instruct the tots on the proper food to select.

At the meeting of the group Tuesday afternoon, the discussion centered about means whereby the mothers of school children could be enlisted to help their children learn the values of various nutritive foods. A campaign to inform the mothers will be made in the near future.

At the beginning of this term, the local association changed the method of handling the cafeteria so that a selection of food would be offered to the children, rather than a set lunch prepared by the cafeteria. The change was made primarily to instruct the children in handling their own funds and choosing their own dishes. However, due in some cases to improper emphasis upon foods in the home, a number of the children have been spending their lunch money for candy. One lad recently sat himself down with his twenty-five cents, ordered a bowl of soup (four cents), and spent the balance on candy bars. The parent-teachers group hopes to enlist the aid of the mothers in educating the children in the necessity of nourishing food. Mrs. Clark Griffin, experienced dietitian, is in charge of the cafeteria, and ever on the alert to see that the children are properly fed. The aid of the parents is needed, however.

Other things discussed at the Tuesday meeting were plans for a whist party, to be on October 24, at the school, for the benefit of the cafeteria fund. Mrs. John Galvin is chairman of arrangements. There will be refreshments.

The talk of the day concerned the pre-school health examination, in which children planning to enter school are given their first recorded physical tests.

Refreshments were served by the eighth grade mothers, with Mrs. George Bonde in charge.

Mr. and Mrs. James De Mattel, of San Francisco, visited with Mr. and Mrs. Louis Di Guilio here Sunday.

The Newspaper Guy

I see a man push his way through the lines
Of cops where the work of the "fire fiend shines."
"The chief?" I inquire—but the fireman replies,
"Gee, no. That's one of those newspaper guys."

I see a man start on the trail of a crook
And he scorns the police, but brings him to book.
"Sherlock Holmes?" I inquire. Someone scornfully cries:
"Sherlock H—, No: he's one of those newspaper guys."

I see a man sit in the seat of the great,
And they ask his advice upon matters of state.
"A diplomat, surely." But to my surprise
They tell me "he's one of those newspaper guys."

And some day I'll stand by the gates of gold,
And see a man pass through unquestioned and bold.

"A saint?" I'll ask, and Saint Peter'll reply
"No, he's only a plain, honest newspaper guy."

Gayety Marks Ancestors'

Memorials With Chinese
Ancestor worship prevails in China along with Buddhism, Taoism, and Confucianism. Custom provides for markers on the graves for identification purposes only. In every Chinese home, however, there is a tablet or shrine which contains the two ancestral names of the father and mother carved on wood or written on paper and before these incense is burned daily.

On a certain day, says a correspondent in the Chicago Tribune, the graves are visited by surviving relatives on a sort of festive occasion, partaking of the spirit of Easter, and to the children are imparted reverence and love for their own families.

Much productive land is occupied by these many graves, but every available foot of that remaining is made to produce. A primitive man-powered plow or one pulled by a carabao (water buffalo) is the only visible agricultural implement. Treadmills to lift the water from one rice paddy to another are operated by four or five persons. Men and women stand along side each other and trudge the long dreary day to turn the wheels, many of the women crippled with cruelly bound small feet, and most of the time there is enough of a breeze blowing to turn the water wheels without human labor. Not a windmill is permitted, because of superstitious fear of offending the wind and water spirits.

Matter of Dietetics

Not Much in Evidence

When the young woman teacher of dietetics married a physician the woman thought it a most suitable match. Their little girl had now grown to be a chubby four-year-old. She certainly is a good advertisement for the strictly scientific upbringing, every one says, judging from her ruddy appearance. But a recent event in the life of this model child, related by her mother, has led the woman to doubt whether the parents' adherence to the rules of science is entirely responsible for the perfect state of health of the little girl.

Her mother was busy in the house and had allowed Martha to play with the well-brought-up little boy next door. It was not long before Martha was called in to lunch. She came in blithely, sucking an enormous hard candy.

"Wherever did you get that piece of candy? And just before lunch, too?" asked the parent, horrified at this double infringement of the rules.

"Harry gave it to the doggie, and the doggie didn't like it," explained Martha.—New York Sun.

Mistletoe First State Flower

The mistletoe was the first state flower to be chosen, Oklahoma making the choice in 1893. Since that time many states have chosen flowers and have changed from one flower to another. Selections have been made by vote of the school children, by vote of the state legislatures and some stand by general adoption. A national flower still remains to be chosen, the dogwood, rose, mountain laurel, daisy, columbine and golden rod having been suggested. The wild rose was chosen for the United States by vote of the readers of Nature Magazine, but no flower has been officially selected. The rose is very popular in state-naming lists, the District of Columbia selecting the American Beauty rose, Iowa and North Dakota, the wild rose, New York, the rose, and Georgia, the Cherokee rose.—Detroit News.

The Wood Thrush

The Wood Thrush, like the other thrushes, feeds on the ground among the forest litter. Thus, with his cinnamon-brown back, wings and tail, he is not easily seen. On his white underparts are the telltale black spots and lines which mark the thrushes. His trim feet and legs are a delicate creamy gray color. The upper part of his beak is black, the lower part yellow.

Many Languages Used

There are 2,793 languages used by the 2,000,000,000 inhabitants of this earth. Chinese leads in popularity, with a variety of dialects, as the mother tongue of 475,000,000 persons, and English rates second with 224,995,500. Then follow in order Hindustani and the other Indian languages, Russian and dialects, Japanese, Spanish, German, French, Portuguese, Javanese, Italian and Arabic.

"Guilty" or "Not Guilty"

Accused persons are not tried by the police, but by a court. The plea of "guilty" or "not guilty" is the pleading by the defendant in court to determine whether the accusation must be proved or is admitted. A defendant cannot be compelled to testify. On a trial after a plea of "not guilty" the defendant is permitted to make any such contention for the jury to determine its truth.

Difficult to Trace Back

Ancestry of the Bulldog

Because of his English origin, the bulldog is frequently called the English bulldog, but the official and correct name for him is simply "bulldog." As with most breeds, it is extremely difficult to trace back the origin of the bulldog. When the Romans invaded England in the early centuries, one of the things they wrote about was that the country was then nearly overrun with large, ferocious dogs, with perpetually snarling faces. These probably were mastiffs, and could be called the ancestors of the later bulldog, says a writer in the New York Herald Tribune.

The name first appears in print in the early part of the Sixteenth century in England. The name clearly indicated just what the bulldog was used for, that is, the ancient sport, so-called, of bull-baiting. However, the cruelty of this sport caused parliament in the Seventeenth century to issue an edict prohibiting these spectacles, and from then on the bulldog lost its popularity. In fact, it was the impression at that time that he was good only for one use, that of bull-baiting, and the breeding was practically discontinued when it was prohibited by law. The breed became almost extinct, and yet it can be truly said that the good qualities of the bulldog were not really appreciated until he ceased to be bred for bull-baiting. Then, and only then, he came to be loved for himself alone, for he was then, as he is now, despite his sour expression, an ideal pet, especially for children.

Mound of Earth Memorial to Beloved Polish Hero

The most interesting monument of Cracow, Poland, to Americans is the great mound of earth which the entire Polish nation built to the memory of Kosciuszko who served as Washington's adjutant during the Revolutionary war, notes a writer in the Chicago Daily News.

Kosciuszko also fought for the independence of Poland and after his death the Polish people revived their ancient way of honoring heroes. From all over the country peasants came bringing earth in their long, flowing sleeves and aprons to deposit on the site here. The mound is 1,000 feet high and is crowned with a large granite block marked "To Kosciuszko."

Kosciuszko's tomb is in a vault of the Cathedral of Cracow, a national sanctuary for Polish kings and heroes. A silver coffin, that of Stanislaus, the patron-saint of Poland, stands in the middle of the church, and near one of the chapels is a great crypt containing the ashes of the greatest Polish poet, Adam Mickiewicz.

The cathedral and the other churches of Cracow are particularly worth a visit by the tourist on religious festivals, especially Corpus Christi day. At this time girls dressed in white and blue carry gaily colored images of Mary from church to church, and the entire city turns out for the processions.

Castle Romantic Relic

A romantic relic of the Middle Ages is the so-called Welterhaus of Hagenwil, near Amriswil and Romanshorn, Lake of Constance, Switzerland. Its massive walls rise boldly out of the placid water surrounding it. Here one finds the gloomy cells, cozy parlors, guest chambers and fine old furniture, and in particular one cool, many-windowed apartment in which the high-backed chairs still surround the long table as in the days when the monks of St. Gall occupied the place. This interesting little chalet was built about 1220, and came into the possession of the Benedictine Abbey of St. Gall in 1264.

Dutch Belted Dairy Cattle

Dutch belted dairy cattle originated in Holland about two centuries ago, and are black with a white belt around the body, beginning back of the shoulders, and it may extend to the front of the hips. They have the general conformation of dairy cattle, and freedom from beefiness.

The Four

By WALDO L. CLEMENT
© McClure Newspaper Syndicate.
WNU Service.

IT WAS during our senior year that the rest of the class began to call us "The Four." Whether this name was intended for good-natured kidding or otherwise I don't know, but anyway it stuck.

We were together a great deal those flying months; Tom and Laura, Anne and I.

Tom was broad shouldered and lean of hip. His hair was the color of corn silk and his eyes blue. The girl called him "The Viking."

Laura was like him; big boned, red haired and good natured.

Anne was different; she was slim and dark haired and quiet.

Tom and Laura were the life of any gathering. The fact that they were seniors didn't bother them a bit. They chased each other up and down stairs in the most undignified manner and hurled insults at each other with friendly grins. They were good pals. Anne and I laughed at their pranks but couldn't do these things ourselves; we weren't built that way.

Tom never took any liberties with Anne. He never washed her face in snow or called her a bow-legged bum the way he did Laura.

Once I saw Tom kiss Laura when they were dancing and the lights were low. She laughed and pushed him away and five minutes later they were quarreling animatedly about the correct way to spell catanapue.

The inevitable happened, of course. Those fool tongue-wagging sophists started the story that they were engaged. It burned me up.

Just before the holidays we had a class sleigh ride; all the usual fixings including four horses, jingling bells, fur robes and a long sleigh filled with straw. We piled in helter skelter, and somehow "The Four" were together as usual. I built a cushion of straw for Anne's back and she leaned her shoulder against mine. It made me feel that I was responsible for her protection and comfort. I came near proposing to her that night.

On the long ride over the snow-packed country roads we sang lively college songs as we snuggled down under the robes and thrilled at the touch of soft hands in our own.

Coming home the moon was just dropping over Sawyer's hill when we reached the long steep grade by the mill pond. I remember we were singing something about "Soft and Low," when a big black dog jumped over the wall barking furiously. We felt a sudden jerk that threw us backward and the singing stopped; then came the thudding roll of hoofs and a biting wind filled with clouds of snow blew over us.

Scrambling to our knees, we saw the driver sawing furiously at the bits and over the heads of the galloping horses the deep valley flowing up to meet us. The road was narrow and curved to the right at the foot of the hill. It seemed to end abruptly in the deep woods.

The sleigh began to rock dangerously and skid from side to side like the lash of a whip. Some of the girls screamed and stood up preparing to jump. I could feel Anne trembling as she buried her face on my shoulder.

Then I heard Laura's voice ring out clear and confident. She staggered across the bouncing sleigh and mustering all her superb strength hurled the frightened girls flat, "Crawl to the right side and hang on," she cried. "We'll make it!"

It was a miracle that we did. The sleigh tipped perilously as it rounded the curve and it seemed an eternity before we settled back and the floundering horses gained the road to plunge forward again. But Laura had gone over the side. I saw her fall, clutching at space, and forgot Anne. I forgot everything but Laura. Leaping feet first and praying I wouldn't strike her, I followed.

A pine tree took care of me; a burly pine that cracked two of my

Five-King Feast of 1363

Honored John of France

There is much obscurity about the origin of the famous five-king dinner of 1363 in the Vintners' hall, according to a writer in the London Observer.

Appropos of the Swan dinner recently tendered in London by the Worshipful Company of Vintners, honoring four princes of England (Prince Arthur of Connaught was unable to be present), he describes the original company as Edward III (England), David (Scotland), John (France), Waldemar III (Denmark) and Amadeus VI (Cyprus).

"John," he continues, "was at the time a prisoner in England. He had been made captive at Poitiers (1356) and was released on ransom four years later, but, on arriving in Paris, found himself unable to raise the money. His son had been left at Calais as hostage, and when he escaped in the summer of 1363, John returned to England to give himself up."

"It seems quite probable that the Vintners' banquet was given in compliment to him, for we read that he was received in England with great honor, was lodged, as before, in the Savoy and was a frequent guest of Edward at Westminster. He died in the following spring, and his body was sent to France with royal honors."

Easter Island Has Many

Puzzling Stone Images

For centuries explorers who have touched the shores of Easter Island have stood in bewildered awe before the huge stone images of hideous men which stand, remnants of a mysterious people, not far from the Pacific coast of the island.

The images are roughly chiseled from lava quarried on the island, which lies several thousand miles off the west coast of South America. Some of the faces with their large noses and long pointed chins are still part of the rock in the quarry—left there for some reason at which we can only guess, writes a correspondent in the Washington Star.

Of the people who made them we know very little. They can scarcely be called artists, for the images are poorly made and show only a childish skill, with great heads out of all proportion to those we are now familiar with.

But these people had a strange culture, of their own, for in the small stone houses scattered over the little island are symbols which seem to be part of a written language. The symbols have not been deciphered, but they indicate an ancient culture on this far-away island.

Another question which baffles modern students of the problem is how the immense and heavy images were carried from the inland quarries to their present location on vaulted foundations near the shore.

ribs and knocked me unconscious with one blow.

When I opened my eyes Laura was bending over me. She was crying and I knew she had just kissed me. Her mouth was trembling. "Bob," she whispered hoarsely, then choked up and began to cry again. My side was aching but I put my arms around her and kissed her. I kissed her many times and thrilled at her heart beating against mine. "I love you, Laura," I said holding her close. "I don't care if you and Tom are engaged, you're mine."

"Tom?" she eyed me queerly, "that clumsy clown?" The old ready laugh bubbled in her throat, then suddenly serious she stepped back and shook her head. "But Anne?" her eyes were probing into mine. "I thought you—that she—"

I was still attempting to describe just how it was when we overtook the rest of the crowd. They were paired off, walking slowly, and the very last ones were Tom and Anne. She had her head on his shoulder and was talking and laughing softly. It surprised me, knowing how quiet and reserved she was. "The Four"—"One for all and all for one"—and they hadn't even missed us!

All Sorts of Muskets in Use During Revolution

In the American Revolutionary war the battling patriots of the New world carried all sorts of muskets, and a few were armed with the long rifle, later known as the Kentucky rifle. At Bunker Hill the British troops carried smoothbore muskets, and the farmers and militiamen who faced them likewise were armed with smoothbores, with the likelihood that a few of the last named carried the rifle that had been introduced into this country by German immigrants.

The smoothbore musket of the revolution, and the weapon with which a majority of Washington's troops were armed, was the French Charleville musket, says a writer in the Chicago Tribune. It had a maximum range of about 880 yards, or a half mile, and an accurate range of about 100 yards. If a soldier could hit a man or a horse at 100 yards with his musket he was considered a good shot, the order of the officers to the men then invariably being to "wait until you see the whites of the enemies' eyes." The long rifle, on the other hand, a weapon in existence at that time, had a maximum range, with a full charge of powder, of about 1,320 yards, or three-quarters of a mile, and was accurate up to 150 to 200 yards, depending entirely upon who was doing the shooting. Some of the most skillful of the marksmen of that time could shoot the old long rifle accurately at a distance of even more than 200 yards.

Symptoms of Hysteria

Hysteria, a morbid state of the nervous system, produces a variety of symptoms, including high fever, which closely resemble those of organic diseases and are difficult to diagnose, writes No. 10,375, State penitentiary, Deer Lodge, Montana, in Collier's Weekly. Some time ago a man, afflicted with recurring spells, was operated on—over a period of years—by five different surgeons who were convinced by his condition that he had appendicitis.

Violin Has Not Changed

While every other musical instrument of the modern orchestra, with the organ and piano, have undergone such changes in construction as almost to make them different instruments, the violin has not changed for the better in the last 300 years. Amati, Stradivarius, Guarnerius, and the others, found the perfect model, and although many attempts have been made to improve on it, they have resulted in failure. The Cremona type became the class model for the violin and it is accepted as such, universally.

Lion Figure in Heraldry

The lion has been used as a figure in heraldry since 1164, when it was adopted as a device by Philip I, duke of Flanders. The lion has figured largely and in an amazing variety of positions as an heraldic emblem, and, as a consequence, in public house signs. The earliest and most important attitude of the heraldic lion is rampant (the device of Scotland), but it is also shown as passant, passant gardant, salient and even dormant. The device of Venice is the winged lion of St. Mark.

Use of Word "Minnow"

Although the name "minnow" is popularly applied to almost any small fish, more technically it applies to members of the family Cyprinidae, which includes the dace, carp, etc. In the United States the name usually belongs to various small cyprinodonts, mainly of the large genus "Notropis" living in the lesser streams and frequently called shiners. The largest and best known of these is the golden shiner, which has a very small head, but is sometimes a foot in length.

Cod Liver Oil Long Used

Cod liver oil has been used for rickets for over a century, though its specific value was not recognized until recent years.

Close Weaving Is an Art Common With Araucanians

Araucanian textiles are beautiful examples of the craft. They are closely woven and have a deep, rich nap. They are prized also for their characteristic designs, the blending of colors and the quality of their dyes. It is well to know quality, however, for aniline dyes have in recent years gained some favor with the natives and replaced to some extent the vegetable coloring used for centuries.

Close weaving is an art which nature forced upon the Araucanians, states a writer in the Washington Star. Persistent rains at certain seasons of the year have led them to fashion cloth and robes as waterproof as possible. A variety of colors and striking patterns, make the garments gay and lovely.

Ponchos usually are woven with stripes or rectilinear designs. Sometimes a Greek cross forms the center of the pattern, and others have small squares with zig-zag sides. The background is usually blue or black and in bringing out the pattern, the Indians use a method which has been followed for generations. Upon the wool that is to remain white, the craftsman ties strips of leather or resistant vegetable fiber. After the dyeing is completed, the coating is removed.

The Christian Era

The practice of reckoning the years from the supposed year of Christ's birth became the custom in Italy, in the Sixth century. In France and England about two centuries later.

Changing the Subject

NO—JUST PUT HIM "AROUND THE CORNER"!

"Tom?" she eyed me queerly, "that clumsy clown?" The old ready laugh bubbled in her throat, then suddenly serious she stepped back and shook her head. "But Anne?" her eyes were probing into mine. "I thought you—that she—"

I was still attempting to describe just how it was when we overtook the rest of the crowd. They were paired off, walking slowly, and the very last ones were Tom and Anne. She had her head on his shoulder and was talking and laughing softly. It surprised me, knowing how quiet and reserved she was. The Man Who Knows

Whether the Remedy You are taking for Headaches, Neuralgia or Rheumatism Pains is SAFE is Your Doctor. Ask Him

Don't Entrust Your Own or Your Family's Well-Being to Unknown Preparations

BEFORE you take any preparation you don't know all about, for the relief of headaches; or the pains of rheumatism, neuritis or neuralgia, ask your doctor what he thinks about it—in comparison with Genuine Bayer Aspirin. We say this because, before the discovery of Bayer Aspirin, most so-called "pain" remedies were advised against by physicians as being bad for the stomach; or, often, for the heart. And the discovery of Bayer Aspirin largely changed medical practice. Countless thousands of people who have taken Bayer Aspirin year in and out without ill effect, have proved that the medical findings about its safety were correct. Remember this: Genuine Bayer Aspirin is rated among the fastest methods yet discovered for the relief of headaches and all common pains... and safe for the average person to take regularly. You can get real Bayer Aspirin at any drug store—simply by never asking for it by the name "aspirin" alone, but always saying BAYER ASPIRIN when you buy.

Child Scalded In Kettle Mishap Here Last Week

The small son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Hendriks was rushed to a Hayward hospital on Wednesday morning with severe burns on his back. His mother, the former Miss Anne Freitas, fell while holding a kettle of hot water and hit his crib. The baby is reported doing nicely at the home of his grandmother, Mrs. Mary Costa, in Hayward.

ALBERT OTTO WEDS MODESTO GIRL AT OAKLAND

Miss Esther Peters, of Modesto, became the bride of Albert Otto, of Alvarado, on Wednesday afternoon of last week in Oakland. Mrs. A. J. Steele, sister of the bride, was matron of honor, and Joseph Otto acted as bestman for his brother. The young couple will take a honeymoon trip later in the year because of Otto's position at the Holly Sugar Company. They have selected a house in Hayward, where they will be at home to their many friends.

Miss Mary Hughes, who has been visiting in Los Angeles for the past month, returned home this week and is living with her sister, Mrs. Laura Orelli.

D. R. REES HOST TO ART GUILD HERE TUESDAY EVENING

With D. R. Rees as host for the evening, ten members of the Washington Township Arts and Crafts Guild met at the Congregational parsonage Tuesday night for their regular meeting. There were two guests present. In the absence of Wesley Dexter Gordon, Mrs. Norman H. Parks, vice director, presided. Business for the evening was waived, owing to the lack of a quorum. The program for the evening particularly emphasized dramatics with an excellent reading by Mrs. E. B. Hodges. One of Gordon's radio plays, "Crickets for Bait," was read. The poetry was represented by Mrs. Gladys Williamson and Mrs. Nell Myers, each of whom read an original poem. Due to the illness of Mrs. Ethel Grau, head of the art department, that group was not represented. The group particularly enjoyed four numbers, whistled by Mrs. Reynolds, noted San Francisco musician, who was a guest of Rees for the evening. The next meeting will be held at the Williamson home on Tuesday evening, November 12.

Congregational Church News

The pastor will speak on "The Conquest of Fear" at the Sunday morning service. The subject is a timely one. If the universe is friendly, as Christians claim, then there is no essential basis for our fears. But with a world going toward no man knows what terrible calamity, "The Conquest of Fear" should give a person the necessary outlook on life to make him conquer Life—and Death. Sunday school meets between 10 and 10:55. Christian Endeavor between 7 and 8 in the evening. Mr. Gordon's class of boys will meet at the church at 8 o'clock Saturday morning as usual. The field trip to Mt. Diablo has been postponed one week.

PHOEBE HEARST GROUP TO GATHER AT ALVARADO

The Tennyson and Alvarado units of the Parent-Teachers' Association will entertain the Phoebe Hearst council on October 17 in the Alvarado school auditorium. The meeting will begin at 10:30 in the morning with reports from the units present. A talk on "Parental Education" will be given by the district chairman. The district magazine chairman will speak on the subject, "The California Parent-Teachers' Magazine."

At 12 an Italian luncheon will be served in the dining room of the Riverside hotel which will be entirely decorated in a Halloween color scheme. Twelve members of the Tennyson and Alvarado units will serve. In the afternoon a short skit, entitled the "Parent-Teachers' Magazine," will be presented by members of the Alvarado unit. Mrs. Beaver, district chairman, will be the honored guest at the meeting which will be conducted by Mrs. Karl Dixon, council president.

WHIST SUCCESS
The Parent-Teachers' Association card party, held on Friday evening, was a complete success. Miss Alice Menezes was the winner of the first prize.

Cuckoo Selects Nest of Other Bird to Lay Eggs

In appearance the cuckoo is much like the sparrow hawk or kestrel, and just as most of the smaller birds will attack a hawk when they see it in the air, so will they attack the cuckoo when it shows itself. The cuckoo has kept a secret for thousands of years. From earliest records, notes a writer in Tit-Bits Magazine, it was thought that she laid her egg upon the ground, picked it up in her beak, carried it to the selected nest and dropped it in, but investigation proves that the cuckoo lays her egg directly into the nest. When the female cuckoo is ready to lay, she will sit on a perch almost motionless from half an hour to six hours, and this corresponds to the time that any other bird would sit on the nest before laying. Then she glides down to the selected nest, for during the previous days she has carefully watched the owners. She wastes no time, but goes quickly to it, stealing one of the eggs. Holding this in her beak, she moves her body on the nest, lays her own egg in place of the one removed, and flits off with the stolen egg. This is devoured sometimes while she is flying away, but more often when she reaches a convenient perch.

COUNTRY CLUB WILL HAVE 2ND ANNUAL CAKE CONTEST

Housewives throughout the district who pride themselves on their cake-baking ability will be interested to learn that the Country Club ways and means committee, headed by Mrs. Roland Bendel, plans to hold the second annual cake contest on Friday, November 22. This time the cakes will not be alone, the club members planning a cooking school demonstration for the same day.

The latter event will show the complete cooking of a full course Thanksgiving dinner, Mrs. Bendel said. The group expects a heavier registration in the cake contest this time, now that the nature of the competition and the judging is known.

TOYON BRANCH TO HAVE RUMMAGE SALE HERE

Plans for a number of fall and winter activities were discussed by members of the Toyon Branch of the Children's Hospital Monday afternoon, at a meeting held at the home of the chairman, Mrs. James R. Whipple. Hostess for the afternoon was Mrs. Rosalie Donovan. There were eleven members and two guests present.

Foremost in the branch plans are those for a rummage sale, to be held at Niles late this month. Mrs. James R. Whipple and Mrs. J. C. Shinn are a committee to select the place.

Arrangements will be made later for a sale of orange marmalade, to be held sometime during the holiday season. Mrs. Norman H. Parks will be in charge of making the delicious confection.

At the request of Mrs. Charles Oliver, the local branch will make application to the department of internal revenue for an amusement tax exemption. The organization is solely for charitable purposes.

Refreshments for the afternoon consist of tea and cake.

GUILD PARTY

Mrs. E. A. Ellsworth, president of the Niles Congregational Ladies' Guild, told members this week that preparations for the guild party Monday night, are almost completed. Mrs. Ellsworth said that tickets will be 45 cents, rather than 40 cents, as was first released.

Largest Anteaters

The ant bear is the largest of the anteaters. He grows to a height of 2 feet and a length of 4. His tail is long and shaggy, and when he sleeps the ant bear spreads it over his body like an umbrella against sun and rain. He lives on the ground, but does not burrow, and his kind is comparatively scarce because he produces only one young ant bear at a time. Other creatures, unrelated to the anteater of South America, have somewhat similar habits. The aardvark of Africa and the spiny anteater of Australia eat ants, but they are not true anteaters. Members of the pangolin family are also addicted to an appetite for ants, but they are unrelated to the anteater.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

FUNERAL RITES HERE TODAY FOR CHARLES BERTOLOZZI

Known to residents of the Niles district for nearly half a century, Charles Bertolozzi, 75, died at his home here Monday afternoon after an illness of one week. He had been in poor health for some time.

Bertolozzi, who was a native of Italy, had entered the vegetable business here many years ago. He was identified with that pursuit until failing health forced his retirement. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Rose Bertolozzi; two sons, Alfred and Rudolph Bertolozzi, of San Francisco; and one daughter, Mrs. Leon Solon, of Niles. He was a member of Decoto council No. 61, I. O. O. F. Friends are invited to attend funeral rites this morning at 9 o'clock from the Pratt mortuary, Hayward. A requiem high mass will be said at the Corpus Christi church at 10 o'clock, with the Rev. Father Emmet O'Conner officiating. Interment will be in the Holy Sepulchre cemetery, Hayward.

Don Turner Takes Post With Oakland Company

Don Turner, one of Niles' youngest businessmen, has accepted a position with the Ferro Enameling Company, Oakland establishment. He has taken over his new duties. Turner, who is a member of the Niles fire department and the Niles Junior Chamber of Commerce, had been a member of the staff of the Murphy and Bristoe grocery here for three years.

are connected with the court he should be serving.

In commenting on methods of arrest and misdemeanors, Silva scored businessmen who fail to back up their officer with complaints after calling him to quell a disturbance. He urged immediate action in all cases, no matter how small.

Judge Silva was main speaker at the junior meet, which proved interest in the organization has not waned. There were forty-six members on hand.

Business of the evening consisted of discussions of the forthcoming turkey whist party, parking lines for First street, a Christmas tree for the town children, and the location of the "missing street!" The latter, said to be an extension of Eye street across the railroad property to Vallejo street, is regarded as a necessary thoroughfare by a number of members. Howard Denton, James Delury and Ritchie Davis are committeemen to investigate feasibility of such a street.

To assist in furnishing milk for undernourished children at the Niles Grammar school, the junior group named a committee to contact Parent-Teachers' Association officials and teachers, and to work out a plan for securing the small but steady amount of money necessary. Paul Donovan, Joe Gomes, E. C. Grau and Frank Duarte are the committeemen.

Joe Pioletti was named head of the Christmas tree committee and J. E. Barton head of the whist committee. The committees were appointed by President Sam Kerns who presided at the session.

A treasury report by Bill Cavanaugh showed the organization's finances to be in good order.

Both Judge Silva and Joe Gomes, school trustee, joined the junior group as honorary members at the meeting. Gomes, in a brief talk, praised the boys for their cohesive spirit, and saw value in the organization as a "training school" for future leaders.

Think what a single telephone call can mean...! THEN... think of its low cost.

"DOCTOR, QUICK! THERE'S BEEN AN ACCIDENT! WHAT CAN I BE DOING IN THE MEANTIME?"

PEOPLE often find that they have been paying a big price for being without a telephone. They pay in various ways.
• In inconvenience, trouble and discomfort.
• In loss of contacts with friends and acquaintances.
• In lost opportunities.
• In actual peril of sudden emergencies.
• In countless cases when time saving is vital.
Is your home linked up with the telephone using world? May we tell you more about it?

Centerville Personal Items

Mrs. Alan Walton is reported to be recovering from an illness which necessitated her removal to an Oakland hospital Saturday night.

The Misses Mamie and Miranda Norris have returned from a month's stay at Santa Cruz.

Joseph S. Furtado, Union Oil Company employee, has returned to his work following a short illness.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Silva and Miss Amelia George, of Hanford, visited with Centerville relatives over the week-end.

F. T. Dusterberry and sons, Frank and John, attended the California St. Mary's game at Berkeley Saturday. Other Centerville people who saw the contest were Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Enos. Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Pimentel and Judge and Mrs. Allen G. Norris.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Maloney were among those who attended the Lions Club meeting in Half Moon Bay this week.

Mrs. Barton Webb and son, Leonard, have gone to Merced for the boy's health. They will be away an indefinite time.

The regular meeting of the St. James Guild was held on Wednesday in the Guild hall.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Dusterberry were hosts to eighteen Niles friends at dinner on Tuesday evening at their home on Central avenue.

Mrs. J. E. Townsend, of Campbell, formerly of Niles, spent Tuesday with friends in Centerville.

Mrs. W. L. McWhirter will entertain the Birthday Club Wednesday with Mrs. Frank Dusterberry as guest of honor.

Mrs. George Coit was called to Berkeley by the serious illness of a relative Thursday. She returned home early this week.

Robert Braden was entertained at dinner by Keith Johnson, of Piedmont, Monday. Johnson, who was employed at a service station in Centerville several months ago, has just returned from a summer spent prospecting for gold in British Columbia.

Mrs. McMillan, Stanley McMillan's mother, has been ill during the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Garrett Norris will entertain the Evening Card Club Saturday night.

Mrs. Fields Bunting is spending several days in San Francisco this week.

Mrs. E. B. Hodges entertained the Social Drama group of the Country Club on Monday. Plans for the year's meetings were discussed.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank R. Adams, residents of Centerville for twenty years, are planning to leave this district soon. They will establish their home at San Diego.

FIREMEN INSPECT OAKLAND ALARM UNIT YESTERDAY

Frank Madruga, president of the Alameda County Firemen's Association, presided over a meeting of the executive board last night, at station 1, Oakland city hall. Chief Fred Rogers, of Centerville; Chief Tony Alves and Assistant Chief Clarence Crana, of Niles; Chief J. E. Pashote, of Newark; Chief Bendel, of Decoto, and Chief Matt Whitfield, of Mission San Jose, also attended. The group were shown central alarm station in the building, through which all alarms are handled.

The next regular meeting of the group, which may be held at Centerville, was discussed by the officials.

Preparations for the Niles department annual dance, to be held at the Garden of Allah on November 2, are progressing.

The ticket sales, under the direction of Lawrence Avilla, give promise of a good attendance.

Orange and black registration number plates for California's motor vehicles were adopted for visibility and durability.

The letters I, O and Q are not used on California motor vehicle registration number plates because of their similarity with numerals.

Pleasure cars in California are numbered from 1A1 to 929999, excluding the series I O Q.

PLANS COMPLETE FOR STRUCTURAL WORK AT SCHOOL

Preliminary plans for structural changes in the Washington Union High school building, to insure against earthquake damage, have been completed and submitted to federal authorities, through which a grant of $12,000 was recently received to assist in covering cost of the work.

Classes in the main building will be shifted in several cases before December 16, when actual construction will begin. The gymnasium, shops and other rooms will house the classes during the period of work.

"CHO-CHO" FAMOUS CLOWN, PERFORMS FOR CHILDREN

Students of the Centerville Grammar school were entertained at an assembly Friday afternoon, with Cho-Cho, the "Health Clown" as the outstanding performer. Cho-Cho, who is the oldest active clown in the world, reached the age of 72 just two weeks ago.

The program was made possible through the cooperation of the Centerville Parent-Teachers' Association, which sponsors educational entertainments at regular intervals during the school year.

On Thursday afternoon, the children of the eighth grade held a successful candy sale, under the direction of Varmilda DeLuca, chairman of the sale committee.

H. P. GARIN OFFICE TO BE MOVED TO SANTA CLARA

Centralization of the H. P. Garin Company office at Santa Clara, will necessitate the closing of the Company's branch office at Centerville, it was learned last week. The packing house, under the management of Al Smith and Andrew Borges, will continue operation as in the past.

O. Swan, manager of the local office, who has been making his home at Niles, will move to Santa Clara, to take up his work there. The Misses Helen and Marcella Bliss, also of Niles, will continue as members of the office staff, and will commute to Santa Clara.

The change in office location was made to eliminate expense of communication between the two offices. The work of the packing plant will not be affected.

MRS. M. SANTOS LEAVES ON TRIP TO ATLANTA

Mrs. Adeline R. Santos, former Centerville postmaster, left Sunday for Atlanta, Georgia, where she will attend the convention of the National League of District Postmasters. Mrs. Santos, who will make the trip in a leisurely fashion, plans to stop off first at Los Angeles, where she will join southern delegations. The trip will be made across the southern states. Following the convocation, the Centerville woman will visit Washington, D. C., New York, and Chicago.

Graceful and alert, his reddish brown black head, tall and wings makes him blend into his surroundings so well that the sly Brown Thrasher is often overlooked. There are some black markings across the upper part of the wings. This black is bordered with white, so that two white bars seem to extend across each wing. The side of his head is light yellow-gray. The eye is pale yellow. The throat, breast and other underparts are pale gray, tinted with light brown. The undermarkings are black. His feet are brownish gray, and the beak is dull blackish brown. The Brown Thrasher ranks with the mockingbird as a songster.—Indianapolis News.

HUSKERS WILL MEET LIVERMORE HERE TOMORROW

Livermore High school's Cowboys, girded for battle, will cavort on the Centerville gridiron tomorrow afternoon, to engage Coach Jess Regli's Huskers in the first, and perhaps the hardest fought, league contest of the 1935 season.

The hillside quarterbacks and tomato patch coaches in this region are looking for a slashing Husker victory, basing their estimates on the handy way in which the Centerville lads crushed Santa Clara last week.

Reaching championship stride, Regli's charges piled up seventeen first downs for a total of 310 yards, to score 27 points to Santa Clara's none. The first touchdown came soon after the opening gun in the first quarter, when Frank Maderios carried the entire Santa Clara line over the last stripe from the three-yard line. Al Muniz made the second score on an off-tackle play from the ten-yard stripe.

Maderios and Muniz scored again in the third quarter, both traveling about nine yards to the goal line on the scoring plays. Santa Clara was at no time withstanding in scoring distance, and were outclassed in all departments.

The lineup for tomorrow's game will probably be the same as started against Santa Clara, Regli stated. Ends will be Juaquez and Silva; tackles, Sinclair and Fields; guards, Cesari and Straub; center, Jorgensen, halves, Muniz and Mune; full, Maderios, and quarter, Fisher.

A. L. SILVA INSTALLED AS NEW HEAD OF U.P.E.C. COUNCIL

Saturday night was a gala occasion for the members of the Centerville council, U. P. E. C., when they received the official visit of their grand president and installed new officers.

The high official, Frank E. Pine, was accompanied by the following grand officers: Frank Rodrick, treasurer; Manuel Alves, marshal; Joseph Pimentel, director; Manuel Perry, vice president, and Joseph Freitas, a past officer. There were visitors on hand from all neighboring councils.

The following officers were seated for the Centerville unit: Antonio L. Silva, president; Antonio D. Lewis, Sr., secretary; Joseph Luiz, treasurer; W. J. Furtado, Sr., and John D. Lewis, trustees. The vice president will be installed at a later meeting.

A banquet was served, at which the following spoke: E. Pine, John Borges and Joseph Freitas.

JOE E. BROWN IN "BRIGHT LIGHTS" BEGINS TONIGHT

"Bright Lights," starring versatile Joe E. Brown, is the main attraction at the Hayward theater for tonight, Friday and Saturday. Anne Dvorak is in the cast. On the same program is the thriller, "The Thirty-Nine Steps," with Robert Donat.

America's great favorite, Will Rogers, comes Sunday, Monday and Tuesday in his latest and last picture, "Steamboat Round the Bend." Ralph Bellamy and Karen Morley add to the bill in "The Healer."

Wednesday's program will feature "Manhattan Moon," with Ricardo Cortez, and "Jaina," from Mazo De La Roches great book, with Kay Johnson as the featured player.

An X without a hexagon preceding the registration numerals on a California motor vehicle number plate indicates that the car is operated by an irrigation district or similar political subdivision.

P.T.A. WILL HAVE REGULAR MEET TUESDAY

The regular meeting of the Centerville Parent-Teachers' Association will be held at the grammar school next Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, according to word from members this week.

A short program will be presented by children of the fifth grade, under the direction of Miss Josephine Herbert. All members and friends are urged to attend.

ST. JAMES MEMBERS TO HONOR WIVES AT DINNER

Members of the St. James Men's Club will don aprons on Saturday night, October 19, and prepare a full course dinner for their wives, who will be guests of honor at one of the periodical "Ladies' Nights" held by the club. The affair will take place at the Guild hall.

Arwin Ormsby, John Lowman and several others will see to the kitchen duties, with another committee to do the serving. Two new members were added to the entertainment committee at the last meeting.

Parlor Postpones Date For President's Fete

Mrs. Evelyn Garcia, president of the parlor; Mrs. A. S. Enos and Miss Marie White, are in charge of preparations for the Betsy Ross Native Daughters card party, to be held at the Parish hall next week. The affair will be the first of its kind in several years to be given by the group.

The reception for Grand President Anne Thuesen, originally planned for early November, has been postponed until December 6, members stated. Other grand officers will be on hand for the affair, which will be one of the high spots of the year for the Centerville parlor.

Literature Class Hears Talks by Mrs. Rideout

Those who attend the night school literature classes, under the direction of Wesley Dexter Gordon at the Centerville night high school, heard an interesting discussion on children's literature and markets for juvenile stories last night, when Charlotte Wythe Rideout, member of the English department at San Jose State College, addressed the class.

This was the second of a series of special guest speakers provided by Gordon.

MORE AT SCHOOL

Enrollment at the Washington High night school has risen to a new high of 250, according to Principal Barton Webb, who states that wide public interest is being shown in new classes started this time. Lip reading, Portuguese, Spanish and physical education classes are only a few of those attracting night students.

DRAMATIC READINGS

Miss Charlotte Grey, of Oakland, will give a series of dramatic readings tomorrow afternoon at the Washington Union High school student body meeting. Miss Grey was a recent entertainer at the Country Club.

O.E.S. Officials Are Hosts at Party Here

Miss Bernice Boyd and John Boyd, worthy matron and patron of the Orient Chapter, Order of Eastern Star, were hosts to members of the chapter last night at a last minute get-together before delegates left for the grand lodge. The affair was held at Masonic hall.

Register posters—something new, different every time.

"ANYTHING GOES!"

George Murphy and Shirley Ross, who share laughs in the glittering production of Cole Porter's musical sensation "Anything Goes," the rollicking musical comedy that Henry Duffy will offer at the Geary Theatre, San Francisco on Monday night, Oct. 14th. The San Francisco engagement is only for a limited season. With 12 Cole Porter song hits, nine lightning changes of scene, an orchestra of 25 which is kept on its toes to maintain the pace set by the flying feet of 30 slim young Hollywood beauties in whirlwind dances, "Anything Goes" expresses the last word in speed, action and black-out surprises. It is at the moment the sensation of New York and London.

KNIGHTS' COLUMBUS DAY PROGRAM TONIGHT

Members of the Centerville council, Knights of Columbus, their families and friends are urged to be on hand at the Parish hall tonight for the annual Columbus day program, sponsored by the council. There will be no admission charge, according to Grand Knight Tom Maloney, who states that the educational value of the evening should attract young and old.

A four-real motion picture, depicting the life of Columbus, will be one of the high points. Speaker will be William T. McSorley, of Oakland, recognized as an authority on the life of the great explorer.

John Accinelli, talented accordionist, will provide music during intermissions.

Morris Calderia Head Of Centerville Grove

Morris Calderia, of Centerville, was installed as noble arch of the Centerville grove of Druids at rites held by the Centerville group Monday night. Other officers are: Alan Walton, vice noble arch; J. D. Cryan, conductor; Joe Jason, inside guard; M. N. Silva, outside guard; A. E. Francis, trustee, and George Holeman, grove doctor.

Plans are under way for a huge joint meeting with the Pleasanton and Livermore groves, to be held at Centerville early in November, when Noble Grand Arch R. E. Galway will pay his official visit.

SUNOL DEPARTMENT

LEAVE FOR SEATTLE
Mrs. Virginia Lee and family and her mother, Mrs. Howard, left Sunday morning for Seattle, Washington.

Mrs. Lee was very active in the Parent-Teachers' Association, the Sunday school and the Aunt Elsie Club.

SUNOL GIRL WED
Clarice Silv formerly of Sunol, was married to Dalton McDaniels, of San Francisco, on Wednesday, September 25.

Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Bollock returned last week from a two weeks' vacation in the northern part of the state.

James Hughes, of Kentfield, spent the week-end visiting his uncle, W. J. Hughes.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Marsden and W. J. Hughes motored to Oakland on Saturday.

Miss Molly Buttner spent the week-end in San Francisco, visiting her sister, Miss Tillie Buttner.

Mrs. J. Trimmingham Is Honored By Association

The Sunol Parent-Teachers' Association held their regular meeting on Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. John Trimmingham, who was president for the past year, was presented with a gift for her conscientious work throughout her term.

After the meeting, the members sewed on their quilt.

RECEPTION
A reception was given Mr. and Mrs. Smith, at Kilkare Woods, on Saturday night. Mrs. Smith was formerly Nell Blake, of Sunol.

The young couple will make their home in Oakland.

The dult Study Club met on Wednesday afternoon.

A. C. Day attended the California-St. Mary's football game on Saturday.

Lorin Buttner, of Redwood City, spent the week-end visiting his mother.

Local News Briefs

Ray Peterson, Niles sportsman, was awarded first prizes by both the Washington Township Striped Bass Club and the Tangle and Twist Fishing Club last week, for his eight and three-fourths pound striped bass, caught near Point Richmond.

Mr. and Mrs. William Pattinson returned to their home on Cherry lane Thursday after a vacation at Eureka.

Toes And Tomatoes

THE serving of food requires diplomacy. It's so easy to tread on someone's toes, if one isn't careful. There's Uncle John who should have known doesn't eat cooked fruits—yet he served baked apple for dessert. There's the Jones family who doesn't eat meat on Friday, and you served that delicious big steak. Well, what can you be safe in serving when there are so many toes about, waiting to be trod on?

Try tomatoes. Keep on hand a list of delicious dishes made with tomatoes, for almost everyone likes them. Here are some suggestions for tomatoes in various courses of the meal:

A Purée and An Omelet
Tomato and Cauliflower Purée: Cook one medium head of cauliflower until tender. Press through sieve. Press the contents of one No. 2 can of tomatoes through a sieve also, and add with the contents of one can of consommé and one cup of water to the cauliflower. Bring to boiling. Saute one tablespoon of minced onion in two tablespoons butter for a few minutes. Add three tablespoons flour, stir until smooth, thin with a little of the hot soup, and then add the remainder of the soup and cook until creamy. Season to taste with salt and pepper. This serves six persons.

Omelet with Macaroni and Tomato Sauce: Make a French omelet with four eggs, one-half teaspoon salt, a few grains of pepper and four tablespoons milk. Meanwhile make a tomato sauce of one tablespoon butter, one tablespoon flour, salt and pepper to taste, one-half teaspoon sugar, three-fourths cup strained tomatoes and a few drops of onion juice. Add three-fourths cup of cooked macaroni, cut in one-inch pieces, and spread over half the omelet just before folding. This serves four persons liberally.

HENRY REGO NAMED S.E.S. PRESIDENT SECOND TERM

Meeting at the Holy Ghost grounds at the end of Second street Sunday afternoon, the Niles S. E. S. lodge made an occasion of the annual election of officers. A dinner, prepared by J. Bettencourt, was served.

New officers of the society, which sponsors the annual Niles Holy Ghost fiesta, are: Henry Rego, president; Sam Kerns, vice president; Manuel Oliver, treasurer; Tony Andrade, secretary, F. Miller, marshal. Rego and Oliver held the same posts before, and were returned to office. Jerry Robello, John Ray and Tony Fields were former members of the official staff.

The group voted to have the fiesta again next year, the first Saturday and Sunday in August being chosen for the major days.

COUPLE MAKE HOME HERE FOLLOWING HONEYMOON

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Di Gullio, recently wed at San Francisco, returned to Niles Saturday, after a honeymoon in the southern part of the state. They spent several days in Los Angeles and Long Beach.

Mrs. Di Gullio is the former Miss Virginia De Mattel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James De Mattel, of San Francisco. Di Gullio, son of Mrs. Egizia Di Gullio, is owner of the American garage, and one of the youngest businessmen of the town. He is a director of the Niles Junior Chamber of Commerce.

The couple have taken up residence in one of the Di Gullio apartments, recently renovated.

AT LIBRARY MEET
Mrs. Emma Murray, librarian of the Jane Clough Memorial Library at Niles, attended a meeting of county librarians at Oakland last Friday. The meeting was conducted by Mary Barnby, county librarian.

ALUMNI MEET
Roland Bendel, district representative for the University of California Alumni Association, will attend a dinner and meeting on the university campus next Thursday evening. The meeting is for discussion of alumni plans and problems.

other towns in the event that a suitable site is found in some other section of the township.

The matter has been placed in the hands of the manufacturing committee, who are instructed to make a preliminary survey of possible sites at once.

Among other communications received was one from R. E. Fisher, chairman of the State Chamber of Commerce publicity department, asking that local businessmen pay tribute to their local publisher, for his cooperation in building up community interest in the activities of the civic organization. The letter, lauding the California press, was written for "Newspaper Week," October 14 to 20. The Niles organization voted thanks for the publicity given in the Township Register.

Business reports included that by F. V. Jones, chairman of the flag committee, stating that a new flag, fifteen by twenty-five feet has been ordered. The funds will be taken from the chamber treasury.

An invitation, asking that the civic group be represented at the courthouse dedication in Oakland, was read. Judge J. A. Silva, A. J. Petsche and F. V. Jones will attend.

Following an interesting talk by W. B. Kirk on weeds, and the efforts being put forth to eradicate them, E. Dixon, Bristow, Men's Club president, announced the next meeting of that body to be held at the Congregational church, Niles, on Wednesday night, October 30.

INSTRUCTION ON Piano, Piano-Accordion, Harmony

Lessons of the piano and piano-accordion are being given by Mr. Donald Spetti, recent graduate of San Jose State College. The lessons are reasonably priced. Harmony lessons, which are to accompany the instrumental lessons are free of charge.

Mr. Spetti has received a Bachelor of Arts degree and a credential in music from the California State Board of Education, which fully qualifies him to teach music.

Mid-West Farmers Increase Incomes

Those Keeping Books Report Business Improvement Being Shown.

Farm earnings of 73 accounting farmers in several Illinois counties showed an increase in 1934 over 1933, the second consecutive year of their business improvement, according to a report of the College of Agriculture, University of Illinois, published in the St. Louis Milk Market Review.

Average cash income last year among the 73 farmers was $2,715 per farm, and cash expenditures averaged $1,500 per farm, leaving $1,215 to meet interest payments and family living expenses, the report explains. Besides the cash income, an inventory increase of $461 per farm was shown on account of rises in farm product prices.

The 73 accounts show an average net income in 1934 of $1,043 a farm, compared with an average of $259 in 1933 and an average net loss of $542 in 1932. The data compiled, the report observes, is not representative of the average farm conditions, as the statistics were secured from large farms.

Of the farms considered, 38 were general and 35 dairy farms. "On many farms," the report states, "the cash received from benefit payments (AAA payments) will more than pay for the year's taxes. As an average for all the accounting farms, payments actually received were $64 more than sufficient to pay 1934 taxes."

Caustic Potash Is Used to Remove Calves' Horns

The horns are usually removed from young calves by using caustic potash. This may be obtained in stick form at a drug store. The calf's horns should be treated with caustic potash as soon as the button appears, which will be possibly at two weeks of age, according to a writer in Hoard's Dairyman. The long hair around the horn should be clipped away with ordinary hair clippers or a pair of shears. A circle of vaseline should then be placed around the horn, making a considerable ridge above the eye so that no liquid containing the caustic potash will get into the eye. The stick of caustic potash is then dampened and rubbed vigorously on the small horn button until the flesh gets considerably reddened, although it is not advisable to rub it until blood appears. The person doing the work should protect his hands against contact with the wet caustic.

Trees for Shelter Belts

With increased interest in planting of trees, many farmers are planning to start shelter belts around their farmsteads. Only evergreen trees should be used for this purpose if best results are to be obtained. Little or no protection is afforded by deciduous trees which shed their leaves in the winter. Even when planted in extensive blocks they do not break the wind. Douglas fir, western yellow pine, Austrian pine, Blue spruce or White spruce if given proper care will develop enough in five years to give some protection, and by ten or twelve years will give adequate protection.—Prairie Farmer.

Grazing Lespedeza

Land in winter grains on which lespedeza has been spring sown may be pastured after the grain is cut, without much damage to the lespedeza if animals are kept off when the field is too wet. This has been the result of experiments by the United States Department of Agriculture and the experience of farmers. It may be necessary to help the lespedeza get started by stopping pasturing for a short time after the grain crop has been grazed down or harvested.

Agricultural Notes

There are 827 licensed nurseries in Pennsylvania.

Few other crops leave as much organic matter in the soil as alfalfa.

The buckwheat plant has a leafy succulent stem and small root system.

Alfalfa thrives in semi-arid and arid climates where irrigation is practiced.

Pennsylvania farmers sold clover and timothy seed to the value of $384,000 in 1934.

Three of every four acres of farm crop land are used to produce feed for live stock.

North Carolina apple growers say the codling moth is the greatest menace to their crops.

Despite national reduction in all livestock in 1934, horses and sheep increased in Oklahoma.

Good ventilation for the mechanical milk cooler makes the cooler more efficient and saves money.

The Mousetrap Quotation

"If a man wrote a better book, preach a better sermon, or make a better mouse trap than his neighbor, though he build his house in the woods, the world will make a beaten path to his door." The authorship has been attributed to different persons, with Ralph Waldo Emerson and Elbert Hubbard most frequently mentioned. A search narrows to these two, and reveals for a certainty that Hubbard supplied the mouse trap, but there isn't any doubt that the sense of the quotation goes back to the writings of Emerson.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Carry Young in Pouch

The phenomenon of a pouch in which the female carries her young after they are born is peculiar to the group of mammals known as the marsupials. With the exception of the common opossum of the United States and a close relative of tropical America, all the members of this group are confined to Australasia. Besides the kangaroo, the most familiar member, the group includes the wallaroo, several species of wallaby, the wombat, the koala, the Tasmanian wolf and the Tasmanian devil.

Pasteur's Service to Humanity

In 1880, Pasteur's discovery that alcoholic fermentation and the souring of milk were not chemical reactions but were due to microscopic organisms founded the science of bacteriology, says Hygiene, the Health Magazine. From his growing knowledge of microbe action he was led to the production of vaccines for the prevention and cure of diseases. This was his supreme service to humanity.

Canthoplasty

Canthoplasty is the operation of slitting up the outer canthus or corner of the eye so as to enlarge the opening between the lids. The operation was proposed by Ammon when the eyelids are not sufficiently cleft, or when the eyelids produce tension on the eyeball, as in inflammatory processes.

American Mastodons

Mastodons lived not only in America but elsewhere, although the term is often used to mean only the American variety. Many scientists believe that they may still have been inhabitants of America when the first human beings dwelt here, but there is no proof of this theory.

Mahogany Is Scarce

True mahogany, one of the world's most popular woods, is so scarce that there is little if any on the market. The "real mahogany" used today comes from about seventy other species of trees whose wood has similar characteristics.—Collier's Weekly.

CHICK SEXING IS NO FAD, MYSTERY

Plan May Be Costly to Most Flock Owners.

By H. H. Aip, Poultry Specialist, College of Agriculture, University of Illinois.—WNU Service.

"Sexing" baby chicks, the latest innovation in modern poultry raising, is no longer a fad or a mystery, but it may be of limited value to the general run of farm flock owners. Interest in the question is at the peak when the baby chick season is at its height.

Buying sexed chickens so as to get only pullets and no cockerels may be justified in certain instances. On the other hand the flock owner should weigh the increased initial cost of the chicks, the heavier losses from mortality as a result of the higher cost of the chicks and the loss of income from the sale of cockerels.

How cockerels help reduce the cost of raising pullets is shown in the 1934 records from 37 Illinois poultry flocks whose owners kept records in co-operation with the college. Most of these flocks were Leghorns. For every pullet placed in the laying flock in the fall, there was an income of 40 cents from the sale of cockerels. Thus the cockerels on these farms reduce the cost of raising each pullet 40 cents.

Mortality loss is another factor which weighs heavily in deciding whether or not to buy sexed chicks. In many instances chick mortality runs as high as 20 per cent. In a cockerel-pullet flock this is not extremely serious. However, a 20 per cent death loss in a flock composed entirely of pullets would be much more serious because pullets usually are valued higher than cockerels.

There is no mystery or secret about chick sexing. It is merely the turning out of the vent of newly hatched chicks for the purpose of looking for a small prominence smaller than the head of an ordinary pin which is located at the edge of the vent. Any well-defined prominence is a fairly accurate sign of a male chick. This method or technique of making this examination varies somewhat, but it takes considerable practice to do the work accurately, quickly and without harm to the chicks.

Ground Cobs Popular for Brooder House Litter

Ground corn cobs have become quite popular as a litter in brooder houses for chicks the past few years, reports John Vandervort, poultry extension specialist of the Pennsylvania State college.

Grinding the cobs into pieces from one-quarter to one-half inch in size is recommended. This litter, just as all litters, should be stirred every other day so that the droppings will work to the bottom. It is also important that this material be covered with papers or bags the first few days.

Some other litters commonly used are shavings, peat moss, cut straw, sugar cane, peanut shells, dried sawdust and hay chaff. The materials should be free from dust, must and molds and should be changed as often as necessary to keep the house clean and dry. Each poultryman should decide which is the best material for him to use, considering cost, sanitation and labor necessary in cleaning.

Raising Milk-Fed Broilers

Two pounds of either skim milk or buttermilk should be added to each pound of the fattening ration and fed during a fattening period of seven to ten days, says an authority at the North Carolina State college. The milk and ration are mixed so as to make a sloppy feed that will pour readily from a bucket. During the first two days of the fattening period, feed only as much as the birds will consume in 15 minutes twice a day. After the second day give them all they will clean up in 20 to 30 minutes two or three times a day. Only enough water to quench the thirst should be given twice a day during the fattening period.

Poultry Notes

For heavy egg production a hen needs a liberal supply of calcium (lime).

New Jersey was one of the pioneer states in conducting egg laying contests.

Mites are in season. That is, they can now multiply faster because of warm weather.

When a hen must be turned loose in the yard with her brood of chicks, a piece of inner tube, slipped over her leg will help her from scratching.

In chopping, the long hay is fed into the cutter, like corn into the silage cutter, and the cut hay is blown into the mow.

Extra Pay

By RUTH ASTON

© McClure Newspaper Syndicate. WNU Service.

JUDY was only a movie extra, but Andy had fallen for her harder than if she were Mona Manning herself. Judy was twice as pretty as the famous star, only half as sophisticated, and ten times as sweet. The life guard had figured the whole thing out mathematically when the girls had come down to Long Beach on location ten days before.

But just now he stood glaring down as she sat in the sand.

"So you care more about your darned publicity than you do about me!"

Her blue eyes flashed angrily. "I care about holding down my job! If you'd ever been out of work as long as I have, you'd realize how much my pay envelope means to me!"

"I don't care how much you think of your pay envelope. I don't like that guy Turner even if he is a director. And I don't want you to go out with him."

Judy shrugged shapely brown shoulders. "I'll go out with him every night in the week if it's necessary to keep my job!"

Andy glared at her. "And I suppose you'd let him make love to you, just to hold your job?"

Judy flushed then laughed. "Don't be melodramatic, darling! Life isn't like that!"

"Don't be too sure. I've heard of directors who expected more than just good acting from the pretty extra girls."

Judy sobered for a moment. "I know. There was a girl who killed herself—"

She shuddered, but the next instant forced a laugh. "We're being awfully silly. Just because Mr. Turner likes to take me out is no sign he has designs on me!"

Andy saw very little of Judy the next few days although never for a moment did he stop thinking of her. On three different occasions he had seen her riding in the assistant director's long yellow roadster.

And then early one morning she came down to the beach, and his strong heart began doing strange things in his deep chest.

She carried herself with a determined air this morning that was new to her. Andy was puzzled as she strode out to the end of the windy pier. Surely she wasn't going to dive? The undertow beneath the pier was terrific. Only an expert swimmer could withstand that pulling toward the piles.

Good heavens! She was standing outside the railing at the pier's end, her shoulders drooping, her whole attitude that of hopeless dejection! Andy looked about wildly for movie cameras, but none were in sight. He was the only person on the beach. And just as he looked back at her, Judy slipped off into the water.

The life guard raced to the pier and covering its length in Marathon strides, dove into the water. He saw Judy clinging to one of the barnacle-covered piles under the pier. If only she could keep her grip! But the barnacles were sharp and would cut her hands. With long swift strokes he swam toward her.

"Hold on!" he shouted, but his voice sounded tiny.

She must have heard for she turned her head to look at him. A strange expression came into her eyes. Then deliberately she released her hold and dropped into the rushing green-black water!

Andy dived after her but soon discovered that she did not want to be rescued. She struggled desperately to free herself.

"Let me go!" she gasped when they reached the surface of the water. She kicked violently with both legs and pounded him with her fists.

Andy was bitterly determined. "Stop that! Do you want me to knock you out?"

One of his arms encircled her tightly, and with his other arm and legs he kept them both afloat.

She tried to push away but Andy raised his fist menacingly. "All right," she gasped. "I'll go with you."

Her body relaxed, and with one hand on his shoulder she allowed him to tow her.

Laying her down gently in the soft dry sand, he asked, "Are you

Age of Prehistoric Giant

There were giants on the earth in the old days. This conclusion seems to be justified by the finding of a stone ax wielded by prehistoric man. The ax weighs 14.5 pounds. It was found in Norfolk, England, in strata that underlie glacial deposits indicating that it was produced and used by a race that antedated the Ice age. The deposit belongs to the early Pleistocene epoch and the man who used it may have lived 1,000 millenniums ago. No skeletons of giant human beings have been found to give support to the theory that a race of giants at one time inhabited the earth, but no other theory has been offered to account for the gigantic size of this flint ax.

all right?"

Without answering she gave him a smile of unbelievable sweetness.

Andy took one of the cold white hands in his. "Darling, I don't know what's happened, but I love you, and I want to marry you. I want to take care of you always."

"You're sweet, Andy."

"Will you marry me?"

"Yes. I didn't want you to rescue me. But when you did, I found I loved you. Do all the ladies you save fall in love with you, Andy?"

The man ignored her question. "Darling, why did you try to drown yourself? Promise me you'll never do a thing like that again."

Judy smiled, salt water still clinging to her long eyelashes. "I wasn't trying to drown myself, Andy. I was just practicing for my big scene tomorrow, with extra pay. I'm doubling for Mona Manning in a suicide act! I was supposed to swim away under the water, but you spoiled it all by rescuing me."

Weeds Are an Obstacle to Better Grade of Hay

Weeds are one of the greatest obstacles in producing high grade hay for the market, says W. H. Hosterman, hay specialist in the United States Department of Agriculture. He reports that farmers who are planning to profit from a national hay shortage—a shortage that certainly cannot be overcome in less than two or three years—will make every effort to make their hay free from weeds.

To grade as U. S. No. 1 not more than 10 per cent of foreign material—which is usually made up of weeds—may be present in hay. For Nos. 2 and 3 the tolerance is 15 and 20 per cent, respectively. Except for alfalfa, where the allowance is 5, 10 and 15 per cent. Alfalfa, says Mr. Hosterman, usually is "very clean," which accounts for the difference in grade requirements.

Weeds are particularly bothersome in the annual hays such as soy beans, Sudan grass, and lespedeza.

The most bothersome weed reported in soy bean hay is the prickly spurge nettle (bull nettle). With the slightest dampness—even the breath of animals eating it—an offensive odor arises. Seed of the nettle also is objectionable when soy beans are harvested as a seed crop.

Insect Cannibals Lower Crop Loss

Earworm Has Habit of Eating Its Fellows; Halts Greater Damage.

Supplied by the United States Department of Agriculture.—WNU Service.

The corn earworm's unfriendly habit of eating its fellows saves a great deal of corn that would be destroyed by these insect pests if they lived more amicably together. Out of several earworm larvae—sometimes as many as 20—entering the same ear of corn, only one may live to become an adult moth, according to recent studies by entomologists of the United States Department of Agriculture. The sole survivor of the 20 does not make away with all the others. Perhaps it kills only one or two. Its victims, however, may have accounted for one or two more and so on. Corn earworm cannibalism is progressive.

Corn with long, tight-fitting husks is more conducive to cannibalism among earworms than corn with short, loose-fitting husks. The hungry larvae that hatch from eggs laid on corn silk outside the husk must work their way inside to the new silk and the kernels. When their only passageway is restricted—as it is when the husk covers the whole ear and extends well beyond the tip—one frequently runs upon another. No larva feeding by itself goes out of its way to pick a fight. But when it meets a fellow feeder it immediately lunges for a soft vulnerable spot of that fellow feeder, sinks its powerful little jaws, and voraciously devours its victim, down to the hard head capsule. In close quarters, where there is no room for a counter attack, the larvae that strikes first is almost certain to win.

In open spaces, the entomologists say, all these tiny larvae lack to complete the picture of furious combat is the ability to growl, snarl or hiss.

Save Overheating of Stock

"There is no need for farmers losing horses during the sudden hot spells of the busy farming season," Wayne Dinsmore, secretary Horse Association of America, says. Men who work around coke ovens in temperatures as high as 135 degrees Fahrenheit have all the salt and water they want. If horses are treated the same way they can stand heat, too. Take barrels of water to the field and allow the horses an opportunity to drink every hour. Give them all the salt they want. This simple treatment will save work stock from heat prostrations in hot weather, he states.

Apples Exported

The United States produces from 100,000,000 to 250,000,000 bushels of apples and, under normal conditions exports from 17 per cent to 20 per cent of the strictly commercial crop. From 1927 to 1932, inclusive, based on quantity or volume exported, apples ranked third among all unmanufactured agricultural products, and based on value they ranked sixteenth on the list of all exported commodities for 1931 and 1932. Thus it is seen that apples are of major importance as an export commodity.

Vaccinating Pigs

The best time to vaccinate pigs is right after weaning time. The amount of serum and virus necessary at that time for complete immunization is less than later on when the pigs are heavier. Some hog producers vaccinate at an earlier age with good results and lower cost, says a writer in Prairie Farmer. Pigs should be kept off food for 12 hours before they are treated. After treating they should be fed lightly for a few days and permitted to run on clean pastures.

Depraved Appetite

Veterinarians say there are several things that cause depraved appetite in cattle, such as unbalanced ration, or prolonged feeding of the same materials or indigestion. They recommend balancing the ration to supply all the needs of the body and allow free access to salt, adding wheat bran freely to the ration if that has not already been done. In other cases, precipitated phosphate of lime or ground bone, in tablespoonful doses twice a day is beneficial.

ARTICHOKES GO NATIVE; BECOME SERIOUS PESTS

All weeds are not basically wild, according to W. B. Kirk, agricultural inspector, in a talk before the Niles Chamber of Commerce Monday. The common garden vegetable, such as the carrot and the artichoke, sometimes go native and become serious pests.

Kirk stated that the artichoke particularly has given considerable trouble in Washington township and other sections of the south county. He points out that the domesticated plant, which is a member of the thistle family, reverts to spines and prickly leaves in the wild state. The third generation of "strayed" plant grows into impenetrable thickets. In this section, Kirk said, efforts have been made to curb the vagrant vegetable. Patches near Niles and Mission San Jose have been grubbed out and killed. The activity along this line during the past several weeks supplemented work done by SERA crews last year. The inspector said that the pest has been brought under control. He told of similar successful work to eradicate the puncture vine.

Two other weeds—the white milkweed and Johnson grass are being battled, Kirk concluded.

Vernon Ellsworth, Jack Rathbone and Rob Zeigler, all freshmen at the university, are residents of the hall.

Mr. and Mrs. Roland Bendel also attended the game, in the company of Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Grey, of Berkeley, at whose house they had lunch before going to the stadium.

UNIQUE DEGREE IS AWARDED HOME RESIDENT

A member of the Sequoia lodge, No. 349, Oakland, since 1904, Phil S. Journal, popular member of the Masonic Home since 1927, celebrated his 85th birthday Saturday. Phil has the distinction of having been given the appellation of "P.M.," although he has never held the office of worshipful master in a Masonic lodge, for which honor the letters are usually given.

The secret came out one evening recently when Sequoia lodge, one of the pioneers of the east bay, came to the Masonic Home to confer the third degree in Masonry.

After the work had been completed a jolly social session was held. The master invited all past masters to occupy seats of honor. Phil was included, but declined, saying, among other things, that he'd rather be excused.

To make a long story short, the officers of the lodge stated that Phil was the "Past Master of Cheerfulness" of the Sequoia lodge, which entitled him to the brief designation of "P.M."

Then the secretary, coming down from his station in the east, presented Phil with a whole armful of presents. Phil accepted the gifts with becoming modesty. Phil states that through life, which has knocked him about from pillar to post, he always strove to maintain a cheerful attitude, even in the face of adversity.

He was born in the Isle of Jersey, in the English channel. His parents were English. His mother died when he was 11 years old. Coming to New York with his father, he ran away from home and became a printer's devil on the Ottawa Times. He finished learning the printer's trade with Bacon and Company, in San Francisco. After a short stay in England some years later, he returned to America via the Isthmus of Suez (before the canal was built). He tried his hand at farming, and was on the ranges as a cowboy. He went to sea for a while, with the Siberian fishing fleet. He followed bartering for a time, with three or four shops in Oakland. He was connected with the old Acme Athletic Club, as a dancing and boxing instructor.

His serious troubles started in 1916, when his wife died. Phil says, but his misfortunes have not dimmed his smile. He gets about with two crutches.

CHURCH GROUP TO GIVE DANCE IN NOVEMBER

The ladies of the Corpus Christi parish are laying plans for their first annual benefit dance, to be given for the church on Saturday evening, November 16, at the Garden of Allah, Niles. It will be the first event of its kind put on for the benefit of the church.

Those in charge of the arrangements are: Mrs. Joe Gomes, Mrs. Bert Silveria, Mrs. Tony Silva, Mrs. Tony Alves, Mrs. Fred Dias, Mrs. Bill Garcia and Mrs. Lawrence Avilla.

The group is planning excellent music and a well-conducted affair. There will be door prizes.

MISSION SAN JOSE NEWS

COMMUNION

Numerous members of the Rosarian Sodality received communion at the 8:30 o'clock mass Sunday morning at the St. Joseph's church.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Pereira attended a birthday dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Dutra, at Niles, Saturday evening. The affair was in honor of Dutra.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Peixoto and son, Marvin, of Irvington, and Mrs. Thomas Pereira, of Mission San Jose, spent Sunday at San Jose.

Mr. and Mrs. Otto Parisio, of Stockton, visited friends in the Mission on Wednesday.

Mrs. Rose Recend and son, John; Mrs. Minnie Frates and Jack Pereira motored to Mountain View Saturday evening.

Eighty-five carloads of number plates are required to register motor vehicles operating in California annually.

California uses 1900 tons of steel in the manufacture of a year's supply of motor vehicle registration plates.

An E within an oval preceding a registration numeral on a California motor vehicle number plate means that the conveyance is owned by one of the state's fifty-eight counties.

MORE ON GHOST STORIES

was the possessor of a haunted house, the haven of some evil creature, and curiously was rampant. None possessed courage to enter, however, until "Wildcat Joe" Nunes, said to be the district's wildest character, went with his henchmen to the haunted structure. Nw, "Wildcat Joe," so the story goes, feared neither man nor beast, and is said to have "baled Chinamen in with the hay." He would go in, and did, while his admirers crowded the sidewalk. Minutes passed, and he did not come out. Minutes more, and some of the braver toads entered the yard, when "Wildcat Joe," sobbing and shaken, and with his locks white, staggered from the house to swoon into the arms of his companions. He never told what he saw, and until the time of his death, soon after, was the meekest man in the valley.

The house still stands, its occupants undisturbed, the neighbors say.
